Riparian Challenge Awards

Amy Sacry, Award Chair

- Recognizes organizations that have restored riparian systems along lakes, streams, and wetlands in the geographical region of the western United States that comprises the Western Division. Each year, WDAFS gives an award to the implementer of an outstanding riparian project in each of the following categories: (1) U.S. Forest Service (USFS) projects; (2) Bureau of Land Management (BLM) projects; and (3) projects completed by entities other than the USFS and BLM.

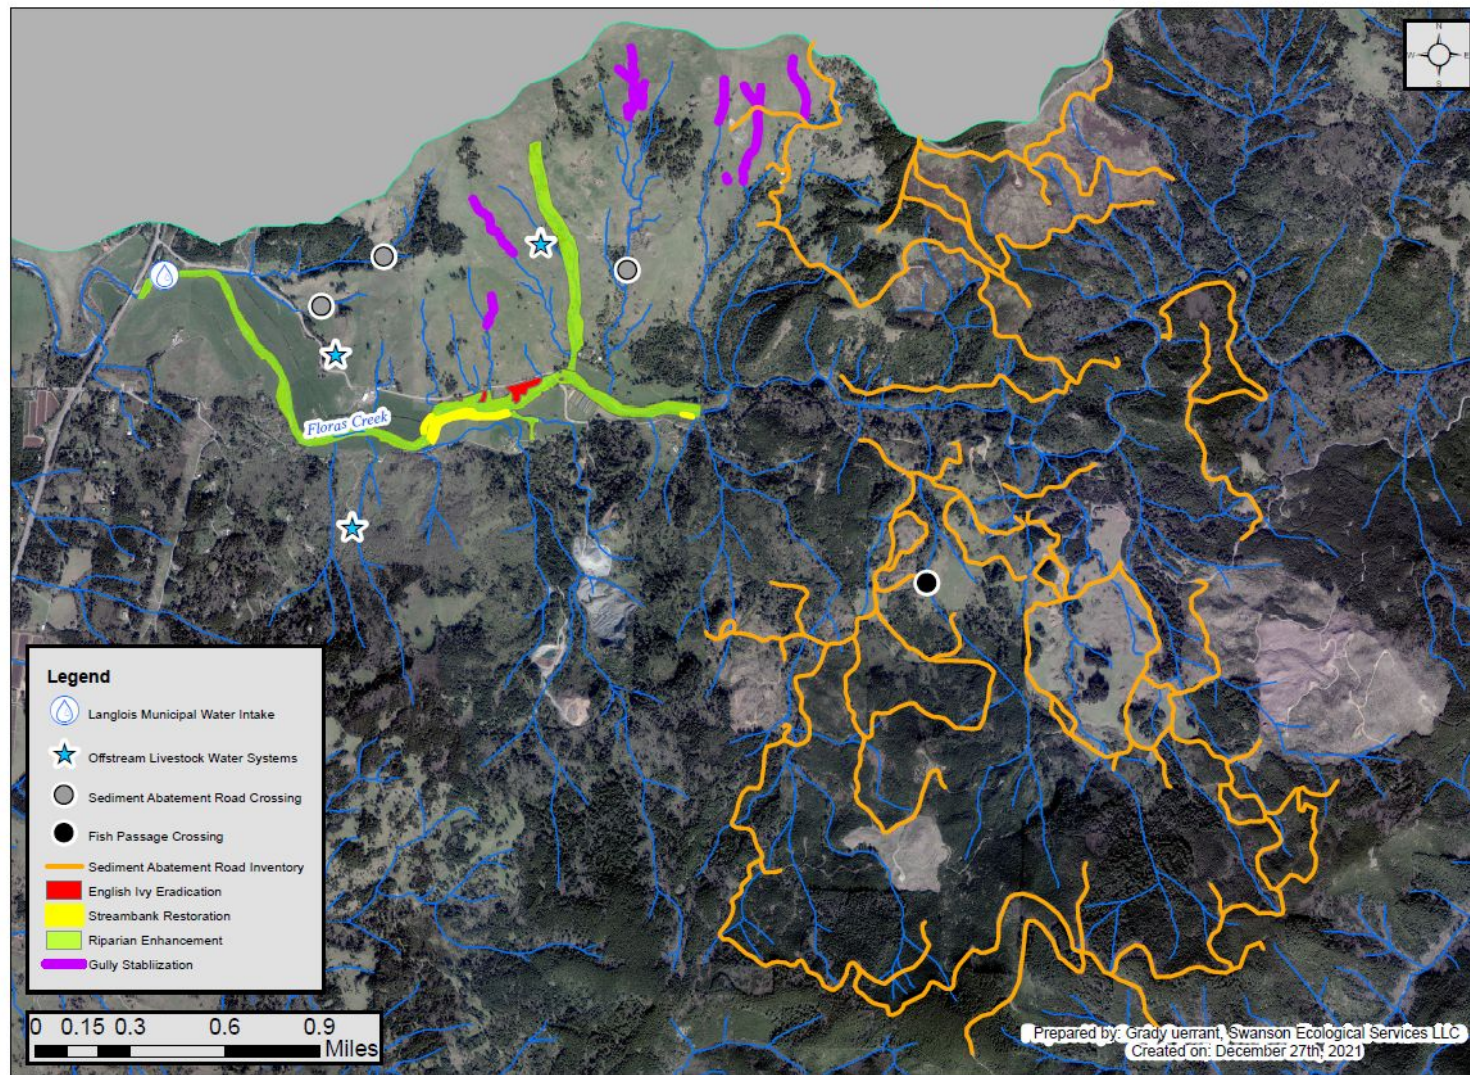

Riparian Challenge Award: BLM

Coos Bay District, Myrtlewood Field Office, Oregon

Floras Creek Riparian and Water Quality Enhancement

- 52,000 acre watershed supplying municipal water and habitat for Chinook and coho salmon
- Goal: Improve water quality and quantity for human consumption and aquatic ecosystem
- Objectives:
 - Enhance 71 acres of mainstem and tributary riparian habitat (weed control, revegetation)
 - Stabilize 1,500 feet of bank erosion on Floras Creek
 - Inventory, prioritize, and address sources of anthropogenic sediment (gullies and roads)
 - Suppress 25 acres of gorse in uplands
- <https://workingwatersgeos.org/our-work/dwpp>

DECEMBER 2020

Riparian Challenge Award: USFS Greys River Ranger District, Bridger-Teton NF

Tribasin Fish Passage and Watershed Restoration

- Collaboration to protect, reconnect, and restore streams on Bridger-Teton National Forest lands associated with a commercial timber sale.
- Reconnected 21.3 miles of spawning habitat for genetically pure Snake River cutthroat trout (a subspecies/subpopulation of Yellowstone cutthroat trout).

Riparian Challenge Award: Other McKenzie River Trust

Finn Rock Reach Floodplain Restoration: Phase 1

- Valley bottom restoration using process-based design techniques to restore single-thread incised channel to a hydrologically connected, dynamic, anastomosing system of channels and wetlands.
- Project goals:
 - Restore ecological processes by increasing surface water connectivity and wood abundance.
 - Increase low-velocity wetted area for native species - Chinook salmon, bull trout, rainbow trout, cutthroat trout, Pacific lamprey, Western pond turtles and Western painted turtles.
 - Improve water quality by increasing the capacity of the valley to store sediment, cycle nutrients, and help establish diverse vegetation that provides abundant shade.
